

Maps for the Just Peace Agreement

Territorial Donation

This is an interactive map showing one way the land gifts may be made to Palestine. The order in which the gifts are made is not important: they could occur in a different order but still end up in the same situation.

The map, left, shows one possible final situation, after donations to Palestine from Egypt, Jordan, Syria, and Israel, and a one-to-one land-swap between Israel and Palestine. Also note the donation by Saudi Arabia to Egypt.

TERRITORY	square km
Israel	20000
Palestine	20000
Syria	183698
Egypt	995450
Saudi Arabia	2136680
Jordan	91641
Lebanon	10252

Territorial Exchange

This is an interactive map of the one-to-one land-swap. It allows you to act as if you are the citizens of some towns, villages or settlement blocks. You can vote for the territorial exchange of your community to the other state, or not.

Click on a square tile on the map to open up that region, then on a town or settlement to vote. I play the role of the Land Court and decide in advance if an exchange is going to be allowed or refused. While you are voting, the net exchange of territory is balanced by a transfer of the total difference, adjusting the southern boundaries of the West Bank.

As you try the map, remember that your votes and my decisions may not be the votes and decisions that will really occur when the Just Peace Agreement is implemented. It will be up to the real people in these communities how they vote and up to the judges to decide if an exchange satisfies the rules; the map just illustrates how some of the land-swap might work.

---

Refugee Resettlement

The interactive map on Refugee Resettlement will appear here as soon as it is ready.

---

Economic Development

The interactive map on Economic Development will appear here as soon as it is ready.